ANGRY CROWD TAKES STREET CAR BY FORCE IN U.S.RESERVE

Capital Trip Without Delays.

Brookland citizens, after waiting

The action of the Brookland citizens. most of whom were women, was finally decided upon when it was learned that among the waiting crowd was a naval officer, who would be un-able to comply with his sailing orders unless he got into the city further delay.

Between $50 and $1.60 yesterday morning it was said that there was no car from Brookland into the city. While the crowds of people bound for work waited several cars went past bound for the barn. Finally, at Twelfth street, a crowd of women stepped on the tracks and maintained their position firmly until a car came to a stop. The crowd then boarded the car, while one member went to a telephone, called the Washington Railway and Electric Company and told them what the crowd had done. He way and Electric Company and told them what the crowd had done. He received authority from the person talking for the company to instruct the motorman to take the crowd on

At the ball the President and his arty occupied a small box in the center of the room just opposite the large one which usually is reserved for his use. The orchestra played from that box last evening.

Mrs. Wilson wore a handsome gown of black velvet trimmed with red tulle and made with long angel sleeves of the red tulle. A band of red velvet finished one side of the bodice, ending in a rose of the same color at the waist line. The skirt hung in a narrow-pointed train. In her hair was a coronet of jet, and she carried a black and gray ostrich fan. A long and handsome string of pearls completed her costume, which was unusually becoming.
